

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A robotic arm that has a main body and pads thereon can prevent electrostatic damage. These pads are used to carry substrates between and 5 in processing machines. A material of these pads is the same as or similar to the material of the substrate to lower the amount of the electrostatic charges produced during the manufacturing process. Therefore, the electrostatic charges cannot damage the electronic devices on the substrate.